KENTUCKY COLONEL STOCKHOLDERS

MR. & MRS. JOSEPH E. GREGORY

BOBBY NICHOLS

JOE VIVIANO

BOB RAQUE

DON COLLER

BERN HACKMAN

THE FIRST FAMILY

Kentuckians think of their state as the basketball capital of the world, and indeed this is true. Kentucky's colleges and high schools are unsurpassed anywhere. But, until last year, one level of competition was missing, professional basketball

That's when Joseph E. Gregory, Owner and President of the Kentucky Colonels entered the picture. Mr. Gregory brought the first major league professional sports franchise to the state of Kentucky when he plunked down the money for an A.B.A. certificate in April of 1967. Wanting the cage capital of the world to be represented by a pro team, this young millionaire brought in some knowledgeable business people and started hiring some basketball players.

The Colonels' First Lady, Mrs. Joseph E. Gregory, (Mamie to her many friends), has been indoctrinated to the intricacies of the cage sport by her husband. He must have done a good job because she has become the "Number One Basketball Fan" of the Colonels.

Mrs. Gregory is not limited to basketball though. Sports have always played a big part in the life of this wealthy young lady. Stock car racing, boating, swimming, and golf are as natural to Mamie Gregory as a walk down the street is to most people. However, show dogs are possibly her number one love (besides Joe and two-year old Joey). She has been active in national show dog circles for virtually all of her young life. In fact, the Colonels had a mascot before they had ball players . . . the Gregory's Champion Brussels Griffon . . . Ziggy. Actually Ziggy's real name is Champion Gaystock LeMonsignor, but he doesn't answer to the latter appellation. Ziggy has won more than 150 best of breed titles in his career. The eight year old mascot was the top Griffon in both 1966 and 1967.

COACH GENE RHODES

Upon first glance one might assume Gene's last named is spelled R H O D E S. To knowledgeable basketball fans, however, it has to be spelled B A S K E T B A L L S U C C E S S. The two are synonymous in basketball circles.

A native Louisvillian, Gene is a dynamic pefectionist whose one aim is to bring a major league professional championship to the fans of Kentucky. You only have to meet Coach Rhodes to realize that he will never be on the losing side of the ledger.

He has been an outstanding success at all levels of competition—from playing in more varsity games than any other Hilltopper in Western Kentucky University's history, being named Kentucky's "High School Coach of the Year," returning to his college alma mater as a coach, to taking over as Kentucky Colonel Coach after the season had started last year and directing the last place Colonels to a spot in the ABA play-offfs while winning 17 of his last 18 home games

One of the first things Coach Rhodes did last year was to set up an elaborate scouting machine—the results of which are evident by this season's Colonel roster.

THE ABA'S FIRST YEAR

Making its appearance on the nation's major league sports map in February, 1967, the American Basketball Association was formed with four basic ideas in mind.

1. To make professional basketball more accessible to a larger number of collegiate stars.
2. To make the game available to the millions of fans over the country who had no access to pro basketball.
3. To provide a new and more economical market for commercial sponsors working to identify their products with sports, but who have been excluded by existing high costs of competitive product exclusively.
4. To meet the demand for another basketball association, the need of which was reflected in the sports boom (estimated personal sports spending for consumption at a record $455 billion in 1966.) Being careful to avoid the fatal mistake made by the ill-fated ABL several years ago, the ABA organizers solicited basketball interest throughout the country. They were successful in enticing leading industries, financiers, and businessmen in eleven major cities to join hands and form a financially sound and stable league.

The first regular season game was played in the ABA on October 13, 1967, in Oakland, California, with Oakland defeating Anaheim 134-129 before a crowd of 4,828. The following night the Indiana Pacers defeated the Kentucky Colonels 117-95 before a turn-away crowd of 10,835 at the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum. The "shot heard round the world" occurred in Dallas on November 13, 1967, as Jerry Harkness scored a 92-foot field goal, the longest shot in the history of basketball, with one second remaining for a three-pointer that gave Indiana a one point victory over Dallas.

Mel Daniels and Don Freeman, both of Minnesota, and Louie Dampier of Kentucky led the East to a come-from-behind victory over the West in the ABA's first All-Star Game played January 7th at Indianapolis. Larry Brown of New Orleans, playing for the West, won a new Convertible as the game's Most Valuable Player before a crowd of 10,872. In Louisville, Kentucky, on March 22nd, Louie Dampier, playing all 48 minutes, scored 54 points to set a single game individual scoring record. Dampier made 19 of 36 two-point field goal attempts, 4 of 7 three-point field goal attempts and 4 of 5 free throws.

In the Eastern Division Play-Offs, Pittsburgh defeated Minnesota 4 games to 1 while in the Western Division New Orleans eliminated Dallas to the tune of 4 games to 1.

The ABA Championship found Pittsburgh and New Orleans first playing two games in Pittsburgh and then two in New Orleans with each winning one and losing one on their home courts. The home court advantage did not hold true in the next two games with each team winning on the others home floor. On May 4th the seventh and final game was played at Pittsburgh with the Pipers winning 122-113; thus winning the series 4 games to 3 and the Championship of the ABA.

The 1968 ABA All League Team consisted of Pittsburg's Connie Hawkins and New Orlean's Doug Moe at the Forwards, Minnesota's Mel Daniels at Center, and Denver's Larry Jones and Pittsburgh's Charlie Williams at the Guards.

The second unit was made up of Kentucky's Louie Dampier and New Orlean's Larry Brown at the Guards, John Beasley of Dallas at Center, Indiana's Roger Brown and Dallas' Cincy Powell at the Forwards.

LOUIE DAMPIER

Guard 6-0 170 Kentucky

Living proof that there is a spot in professional basketball for the little man, Louie is probably the best shooter in the ABA. He finished the season as the loop's ninth leading scorer with an average of just under 21 a game. Dampier holds the ABA single game scoring record having pumped through 54 points against the Indiana Pacers on March 22nd of last year. In addition to scoring Louie led the Colonels in assists. A bona fide All American from the University of Kentucky, venerable Adolph Rupp called him the greatest shooter he has ever seen. Louie is in the insurance business during the off-season. He and his wife, Marty, have a ten month old daughter, Danielle.

DAREL CARRIER

Guard 6-3 185 Western Kentucky

Team captain last season, Darel also was the Colonels leading scorer with an average of 23 points per game which was fourth best in the ABA. He was the third leading producer of three-point field goals and sixth best free-throw shooter in the league. His three point goal percentage was tops in the ABA. This college All-American also was an ABA Eastern Division All Star selection, along with teammates Louie Dampier and Randy Mahaffey. Darel holds a Bachelor of Science Degree and once the season is over, returns to his number two love—farming.

JIM LIGON

Forward 6-7 215

They call him "The Goose" but the opposition has some more descriptive names for him. Ligon, who never played college basketball, made his first season as a professional a successful one as he led the Colonels in rebounding with an average of 12 a game and was the team's third leading scorer with a 16.2 output per game. Goose enjoys dancing during his spare time and plans to work with youth during the off season.

WAYNE CHAPMAN

Guard 6-6 190 Western Kentucky

Wayne was a top draft choice both in the ABA and NBA last spring. This surprised no one who had seen this high-scoring 6-6 guard play. In addition to being named Player of the Year in the Ohio Valley Conference in 1968, Chapman is among the top ten scorers in Western Kentucky University's history. Wayne has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education, is married, and he and his wife, Laura, have a one year old son named Rex.

JIM CALDWELL

Center 6-10 240 Georgia Tech

Jim has more pro experience than any other Colonel player, this being his fourth year of professional competition. He spent a tour of duty with the New York Knickerbockers of the NBA, then was obtained by the Colonels mid-season last year from the New Jersey Americans. A native of nearby Lawrenceburg, Indiana, Caldwell was the Colonels second leading rebounder averaging over 9 retrieves per game. Jim and his wife, Mary Jo, are the proud parents of a brand new daughter, Caroline.

MANNY LEAKS

Forward 6-8 225 Niagara University

Leaks averaged 17 points per game and 16 rebounds per game last year in college while picking up all sorts of honors at Niagara, this being no easy matter since one of his teammates was the fabulous Calvin Murphy. Manny is expected to bolster the Colonel front line and help to make it one of the most feared in professional ball. Manny has a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Sociology and lists pingpong and billards as his hobbies.

SAM SMITH

Forward 6-7 235 Ky. Wesleyan

Sam comes to the Colonels from the Minnesota franchise where he averaged 10.0 points per game. His size should help the Colonels under the basket. Sam transferred from the University of Louisville to Kentucky Wesleyan in 1965 and in the next two years led his team to an NCAA College Division championship and a 3rd place finish. Smith was twice picked as All-American and in 1966 was named the Most Valuable Player in the NCAA College Division Tournament. Sam and his wife, Helen, have one son, Sam, Jr., age two.

GENE MOORE

Forward 6-9 240 St. Louis Univesity

Moore was an All-Conference selection in the perennially tough M.V.C. Louisville area basketball fans are familiar with both his scoring and rebounding prowess while a collegiate player. It's no secret the Colonels were lacking in the "power" department last season and Moore's ability under the boards should delight the fans this season. Gene has a Bachelor of Science Degree in History. He is a stereo "buff" and enjoys listening to music on his elaborate stereo equipment.

BOBBY RASCOE

Guard 6-4 205 Western Kentucky

A swing man, Rascoe was the Colonel's fifth leading scorer averaging just under 9 points per game. A tremendous competitor, Bobby was an All-American in college and the third leading scorer in Western Kentucky University's history. However, it is his defensive prowess and his ability to come off the bench either as a guard or forward and pick the team up that has earned him the accolade of most coaches. Bobby and his wife, Nancy, enjoy boating and water skiing and spend their spare time at the nearest lake. Bobby has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education and attends Graduate School each summer while working on his Master's Degree.

RANDY MAHAFFEY

Forward 6-7 212 Clemson

When the word "hustle" was coined, Randy Mahaffey wasn't even born. However, fans who see this young man in action must surely think he was the reason for the birth of the word. Randy has other things going for him than hustle, though. His springlike legs helped him register the second highest total of rebounds for the Colonels . . . pulling down 684 for an average of over nine a game. Mahaffey also was the team's fourth highest scorer, with a 13.7 mean. His college honors included All-Atlantic Coast and Academic All-American. Randy holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Pre-Med and he and his wife, Diane, live in Decatur, Georgia during the off season, where Randy has a wood-paneling business.

REGGIE LACEFIELD

Guard-Forward 6-5 230 Western Michigan

Reggie has been the most pleasant surprise during the Colonel's pre-season training camp. Although not a high draft pick, Lacefield has proven that he deserved to be an All-Conference Player three years. In college Reggie averaged 22 points per game and 14 rebounds per game during his senior year and is the second leading scorer in Western Michigan's history. Showing promise as a swing man, Lacefield should see plenty of duty at both forward and guard. Regie has a Bachelor of Science Degree in Elementary Education and works during off season with the Community Youth Program in Gary, Indiana.
